By Associated Press.

PARIS, June 30.—The Germans resumed their violent attacks on the Verdun front west of Dead Man Hill last night, the war office announced. Picked German troops advanced on a sector of one and three-fourth miles and were almost annihilated.

The Germans penetrated the first trench line over the entire front attacked but were driven out excepting on the eastern slope of Dead Man Hill. The French made a counter attack west of Hill 304 and took back most of the trenches lost Thursday.

On the Alsace front the Germans attacked northeast of Cerny, employing burning liquid. They occupied a salient after the defenses had been leveled by shellfire but were repulsed elsewhere.

PARIS, June 27. (Delayed by censor.) June 30.—The first expeditionary army unit of American troops in command of Major General William L. Sibert arrived safely at a French port. Rear Admiral Gleaves has cabled Secretary of the War, Daniels, saying the expedition has arrived safely.

The various units of the American expeditionary force having reached France safely, the censor has released dispatches filed during the week describing the arrival of the different contingents. No previous word had been received with the exception of one dispatch on Wednesday announcing that the second contingent had gone into camp.

NOT ONE OF PERHAPS MEN LOST IN TRIP ACROSS

PARIS, June 30.—Not a man was lost during the transfer of the American forces to France, and there was not even a case of serious illness, said Major General Pershing, the American commander, on his return to his headquarters today after a quick trip to the port of debarkation.

"The landing of the first American troops has been a complete success," he said. "In this remarkable transfer of a large force across the ocean—one of the largest we have ever undertaken—not a man or an animal was lost or injured and there was not a single case of serious sickness—nothing but a few unimportant cases of mumps." The unlanded in splendid weather with keen confidence and eager spirit.

"The physical appearance of our men is truly inspiring. They are all fine, husky, young fellows with the glow, energy, good health and physical vigor which will make them a credit alongside any troops. They are exceptionally well equipped and armed with substantial wooden barracks, good beds, good food and the best sanitary arrangements. They are located on high ground. For all of this we are deeply indebted to French co-operation with members of my staff."

SPANISH WARSHIPS ESCORT GERMAN BOAT TO SEA

PARIS, June 30.—A Madrid semi-official note says a German submarine which took refuge at Cadix left port yesterday morning escorted to the limit of territorial waters by two Spanish torpedo boats. The Spanish government asked and obtained from the Berlin government a formal promise that the submarine would go direct to a German port without attacking enemy ships and without performing any other act of war.

BRAZIL'S NAVY ON JOB

U. S. TO SEND MISSION

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Brazil's navy has begun co-operating with the American fleet in United States waters. In hunting down German sea raiders. Sending of a special diplomatic mission to Brazil to arrange for greater co-operation of forces and the close possible co-operation of the two governments is under consideration by the United States.

Without formal declaration of war, Brazil thus practically joins the States against Germany. Coincident with the inauguration of Brazil's naval operations, a plan for protecting her merchant ships in their voyages to allied ports with footstuffs has been put into effect.

Whether Brazil will supplement action by a formal declaration of war is not known here, and by some officials such action is regarded as doubtful because the government at Rio Janeiro is inclined to regard its action rather defensive than aggressive.

For the present, it is believed, Brazil's part will be adequately done if she contributes to the safety of the southern seas and to the movement of Europe of foodstuffs.

The President now has under consideration the personnel of the mission to Brazil. It probably will leave the United States within a month or six weeks and will include men familiar with Latin-American and representative from military establishments.

Brazil's seizure of war bound German ships has added to her merchant marine more than 150,000 tons which, with what already is at her disposal, will, it is believed, contribute materially to the solution of the problem of getting supplies to the Allies.

GERMANS TAKE ENEMY LINES ON AISNE FRONT

BERLIN, June 30.—German troops yesterday captured several enemy lines by Laboelle farm on the Aisne front, army headquarters announced today.

A line 500 metres in length on the western slope of Hill 391 northwest of Verdun was also captured, the state major reported.

GERMANS DRIVE ENEMY GROUND SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

DUNDEE, Scotland, June 30.—"We have driven the great German enemy underground," said Premier Lloyd George in a speech here today.

"When a great army is driven to these tactics it is the beginning of the end; it means that we are pounding a sense of inferiority into every pore of the German military mind. It is good for the war, is even better for after the war, as long as the Prussians have an idea of superiority in their minds Europe will not be a decent place for people to live in."

"The Russian, he said, has many virtues, but a sense of humility has never been among them. The Premier added that he is now being taught the lesson of humility with a fierce and relentless lash."

MAY NOT GIVE PRESIDENT AUTHORITY TO STOP BREWING

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Prohibition features of the food legislation introduced in the Senate today while debate continued on the food control bill.

Prohibition legislation, it was generally predicted, will be confined to distilled liquors, following President Wilson's suggestion in prohibiting leaders to drop the fight against making beer and wine.

Londoners discussed many proposals for compromise on the liquor issue but with little prospect of agreement.

A clear cut fight and vote was in prospect next week with factions admitting that because of the President's intervention prohibition would extend only to distilled liquors.

RECRUITING WEEK ENDS WITH REGULAR ARMY SHORT 50,000

President's Call for Volunteers Does Not Bring the Desired Results.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—President Wilson's call for volunteers to bring the regular army up to full war strength of 100,000 men by today has not been realized. War Department officials indicate that there is still a shortage of 50,000.

This discrepancy probably will be realized by taking reservists from the ranks of the new selective army.

With Recruiting Week at an end, only nine states have furnished the complete quotas requested.

COLONEL BARRETT WANTS 75 MEN BY MIDNIGHT

Dr. L. P. McCormick today received a telegram from Colonel James E. Barrett, asking that a company of 75 men be recruited here before midnight for Colonel Barrett's new regiment. Dr. McCormick says that while this will be impossible he and other veterans will probably get a company together here in a few days.

Colonel Barrett has offered Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh a regiment of 12 companies recruited from Western Pennsylvania towns, which offer was accepted. He is now busy getting the men together and it is necessary to have the regiment by July 1. Orders have been sent to Spanish-American war veterans in other cities and towns and recruiting is going on throughout the western part of the state today.

Most of the men who served in the Spanish-American war and now located here are married and have families, consequently it would be a hardship for many of them to enlist for service now. For this reason there is no great possibility of a company in Colonel Barrett's auxiliary regiment being located here.

AUGUSTINE SAYS UNSECURED CREDITORS WILL LOSE OUT

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, June 30.—Probably 500 persons, men and women, from all parts of Fayette, Somerset and Greene counties attended a meeting of unsecured creditors of J. V. Thompson at the court house here this afternoon. Practically all of them were vitally interested in the Thompson case, most of them being creditors, secured and unsecured, of the banker. The court room was packed.

Judge Koser of Somerset called the meeting to order and Attorney E. C. Higbee of Connellsville was chosen chairman. It was then decided to invite the members of the Thompson Creditors' committee to come into the meeting and state their plan to dispose of the Thompson properties to the Hill interests, a deal by which it is proposed to pay off the obligations of the First National Bank of this city and bring 40 per cent to the unsecured creditors. A Plumer Austin, G. F. Harrah and E. R. Schugham, of the committee, then entered the room. Mr. Austin addressed the meeting, stating the committee's plan and advising its acceptance.

Jasper Augustine interrogated Mr. Austin at some length and a heated argument ensued, making it necessary for Chairman Higbee to rap for order. Mr. Augustine declared that the unsecured creditors would lose out if the deal went through.

Charles A. Tull also secured permission to interrogate Mr. Austin and read a long list of prepared questions, which Mr. Austin answered.

CONNELLVILLE STEPS OUT AND UNIONTOWN FEARS SHE MAY GO AFTER COURT HOUSE

County Seat Eclipsed in Red Cross Campaign and Draft Registration.

BOOZE PRICES SOARING

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, June 30.—Uniontown was startled this week by the report of Connellsville's Red Cross campaign. With the registration of young men for the selective draft in Connellsville greater than Uniontown followed by the Youth City surpassing the county capital in its subscriptions to the American Red Cross, some of the Uniontown boosters have become alarmed. Connellsville's military spirit has far surpassed that of Uniontown during the first half of this year, and now some of the most patriotic ones are attempting to whoop things up here.

A Connellsville man in town this week made the suggestion that since Connellsville is doing so much more than Uniontown that the court house be moved to Uniontown. This suggestion created a storm of protest and ejaculation. If there is anything that makes a Uniontown man angry it is to suggest that the court house be moved to another town.

And some visitors have been cruel enough to hint that it would be moved to Dunbar.

Creditors' Meeting.

Creditors of Joseph V. Thompson are holding a meeting this afternoon in the court house. The meeting was called by Jasper Augustine and William Searight, known in financial circles as the "curb committee." These men, it is said, are opposed to the proposed deal with the Hill interests in St. Paul for the sale of the Thompson estate for $5,000,000, which will give the secured creditors 40 cents on the dollar. Early attendance at today's meeting was large, but there seemed to be a large amount of sentiment for the proposition made by the

FOREIGN CITIZENS TO PLEDGE LOYALTY TO U. S. ON FOURTH

Croatians Plan Celebration, Including Parade; Hungarians to Have Picnic.

The Fourth of July will see several patriotic celebrations in Connellsville. The Croatians of the vicinity are to have services in which they will pledge allegiance to their adopted country. The Hungarians will have a big picnic, at which they intend to show their loyalty. The night before the Navy league exhibition of fireworks will be held at Fayette Field.

The Croatians of the foreign born citizens promise to be especially unique and interesting. The Croatians of the vicinity will make their affair an all-day celebration, including a parade, the blessing of the flag, and speechmaking and exercises at which a public statement of the Croatians' loyalty to America will be made.

Some very prominent speakers have been secured, among them Joseph Marchnic, president of the Pittsburgh Humane society; Don Niko Grskovic of Cleveland, a Roman Catholic priest, considered perhaps the biggest man among the Americans of Croatian birth; Kosta Unkovic, a well known lawyer of Pittsburgh, Editor Kolander of the Pittsburgh Croatian newspaper; Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen and Attorney L. B. Brownfield of Uniontown; Mayor R. Marietta and Councilman John Puggan, Sr. The last four of these men will speak in the English language, the others in the language of the Croatians.

The ceremonies will begin at about 10 o'clock in the morning, with the blessing of the flag at the Polish church on the West Side. The American flag purchased for this occasion, by the way, cost $280. The parade will then take place. The speechmaking will be in the Slavish hall, and when it is concluded there will be dancing and all sorts of amusements. M. Derentin, president of the Croatian society, will lead the parade and will preside at the meeting. The work of preparation for the affair has devolved almost entirely upon him.

The celebration promises to be a noteworthy one, and it is planned to show the American born citizen just how the Croatians stand toward his adopted country.

The celebration of the Hungarians grows out of the payment of the debt of $2,000 on the St. Emory Roman Catholic church, largely through the efforts of Rev. Louis Kovacs, the pastor. The freeing of debt will be celebrated by the congregation with a blessing of the church in the morning, and immediately afterwards the people will go to M. Derentin's farm in Connellsville township for an all day picnic. About 4,000 Hungarians are expected to attend the outing. Four big hogs were killed today and there will be a roast on the grounds. Several bands have been secured. The exercises will take the form of a patriotic demonstration.

Plans for the Navy league's fireworks are coming along nicely, the sale of tickets today by women of the comforts branch being reported very good.

BEACH TO OPEN

Bathing Places at South Connellsville Is All Ready.

The "beach" at the Youth river near South Connellsville will formally open tomorrow, according to S. B. Miller, of the borough, who has gotten the sandy shores in readiness for the summer. The beach has been equipped with tents for men and women, a convenience which has been lacking hitherto.

There have been no large crowds at the river so far this summer, the water having been too cold. It has warmed up during the week and it tomorrow is a hot day, many will probably take a plunge.

In the past two years the beach has become the most popular bathing place in this section, especially on Sundays. At times it has been necessary for the West Penn to run special cars to take care of the traffic.

The First National bank at Perryopolis has declared a semi-annual dividend of five per cent, from the earnings of the last six months.

Beerbower responded as best he could, considering his surprise at this concrete evidence of the regard in which

MUCH NEEDED BANK AT OHIOPILE NOW FULLY ORGANIZED

Capital Stock of $25,000 Over-subscribed, Making Increase Necessary.

F. E. BURDETTE AT HEAD

Prominent Merchant and F. M. Rush, Proprietor of the Ohiopile House, Start Ball Rolling and Movement Quickly Takes Hold; The Directors.

The Farmers' Deposit Bank of Ohiopile will open for business some time in October in the Burdette & Sailor building, pending the erection of an Odd Fellows' temple, in which the institution will lease permanent quarters. The original capital stock of $25,000 has all been sold, it is stated by the organizers, and it will be necessary to increase the capital to $35,000 before the charter application is made on October 2.

A bank at Ohiopile has been badly needed for a long time. The organization of one has been discussed at various times but it remained for Fred E. Burdette, of the firm of Burdette & Sailor, and F. M. Rush, proprietor of the Ohiopile house, to launch the movement. Their efforts proved successful beyond all expectations. Business men of that vicinity subscribed large blocks of stock, convinced that a bank was much-needed and would be highly successful.

The following will serve as directors: A. C. Bailey, M. H. Hochstetler, Dr. L. Dale Johnson, J. S. Jackson, John W. Holt, Jr., C. D. Sailer, F. E. Burdette, Oliver Sproull, F. M. Rush, F. J. Woodmaney, all prominent Ohiopile business or professional men; Logan, Rush of Connellsville, Fayette county commissioner; C. B. Sipe, Mill Run; W. E. Rice, Connellsville coal operator; C. E. Yeagley and Dr. H. P. Meyers, Confluence, and S. E. Kendall, Pittsburg.

A tentative slate for officials of the bank has been decided upon as follows: Fred E. Burdette, president; I. F. Woodmaney and Dr. H. P. Meyers, vice presidents. No cashier has yet been chosen.

The promoters are certain that a suitable bank building and lodge room will be erected by the Odd Fellows of Ohiopile.

MAN RUN OVER

Badly Hurt While Attempting to Crawl Over Train.

While attempting to crawl over a B. & O. train near his home at Owensdale this morning Martin Gabryszak, 56 years old, was badly hurt, having his back broken and his body crushed. He was rushed to the Memorial Hospital at Mount Pleasant, where his condition is considered critical.

Gabryszak was going after grass for his cow, when a string of cars being shifted on the tracks blocked his passage. The cars were not moving when Gabryszak started to climb over. Before he got through them, however, the engine moved the train, causing him to lose his hold. He was caught and when the cars pulled apart he fell to the tracks but away from the train, saving himself from instant death.

His foot and hand were crushed and his back and collar bone broken. Gabryszak has a wife and four children.

NEED NOT STAND.

National Anthem on Player Organ Requires No Salute.

"Is it necessary to rise and remain on one's feet during the rendition of 'The Star Spangled Banner' by a mechanical organ-player in a motion picture house?" asks a Courier reader. "For my part," the letter continues, "I feel no desire to pay my respects to the national anthem emanating from an instrument played by mechanical means, though I noticed that some people rose to their feet. The majority didn't."

The promiscuous playing of the national anthem in public places is disapproved by the military authorities. Army regulations are that but one stanza of "The Star Spangled Banner" shall be played and that then all shall rise and remain standing until it is finished.

FIRE HOUSE RENTED

Macabee Room Not Now Available For City's Use.

The temporary fire station plans have been abandoned. It was learned this morning, when a new fire-vulcanizing concern, the Cochran-Porter Motor company, occupied the room in the Macabee building, which it had been intended to remodel for the fire station. H. G. Patton, record keeper for the Macabees, went to city hall and secured the lease. Councilman M. B. Fryce said this morning when asked what had happened in the new fire station, that the new fire station would be on the city hall lawn, and it would be a permanent and not a temporary one. Councilman Patton said so much money for the remodeling of the Macabee building for use temporarily. The Macabees could not hold the room open throughout the summer while council was arguing about using it, and the lease made out to the city was returned this morning.

ARREST YOUTH CAUGHT MAKING SKETCHES OF DUMPS AT COKE WORKS

Young College Man Insists He Was at Work on Plan to Salvage Coke Particles.

A scheme for salvaging the fine coke from the ash dumps of all mines in the Connellsville region was given last evening by William F. Karl, who was arrested yesterday morning at the Phillips mine of the H. C. Frick Coke company, as the reason for his activity in making pencil sketches of the exterior of the plant. Karl is being held pending an investigation by the federal authorities.

Karl said he was employed by the Pennsylvania Crusher company of Philadelphia to make pencil sketches of all mines in the region showing the relative location of the ash dumps with the sidings. He declared that when he had the data collected the company intended to make the coal companies a concrete proposition to remove the ash dumps. He said the fine coke salvaged from the ash dumps and converted into fuel would have a ready market with the furnaces. The proposition of his company is a legitimate business enterprise, he insisted.

Maps of a number of coke plants in the region, together with the names and addresses of many plant superintendents were found in Karl's possession. He said that there was no ulterior motive, so far as he knew, in their preparation. Karl, who is about 22 years old, has been collecting the ash dumps since his graduation from Carnegie Tech on June 15. He is a Pittsburgh man. His father, he said, is a naturalized German.

Karl was arrested after Superintendent W. J. Cullerton of Phillips had noticed him sketching the plant. Sheriff Thomas L. Howard has notified the federal authorities.

He was a barber and had secured employment with a Crawford avenue barber in expectation of starting to work today.

A short time before his death Mr. Royal was up and apparently was in his usual health. Remarking to his wife that it was "too early to get up," he went back to bed and died soon afterwards. Stader to St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic church at Lebehersing, Pa., where requiem high mass will be celebrated.

Mr. English resided in Connellsville during his youth, but lived in Birmingham, Alabama, for the past 20 years. In the south he was connected with several blast furnaces. He went to Mobile for his health recently, dying there of inflammatory rheumatism.

MRS. SARAH HARVEY.

Mrs. Sarah Harvey, a former well known resident of Connellsville, died this morning at the Methodist home at Dravosburg. The body will be brought to Connellsville and removed to the residence of Mrs. Jane Moore in West Fayette street, a sister of the deceased. Mrs. Harvey before her marriage was Miss Sarah Lane. She was a widow and survived by several brothers and sisters. For a number of years she resided in Connellsville, where she was widely known.

Patriotism of Veterans Touched and They Start Work at Once Recruiting For Auxiliary National Guard Company; Other M. Pleasant News.

Special to The Courier
MOUNT PLEASANT, June 29.—Last evening word was received here by Captain James Harkins from Colonel Barnett of Pittsburgh, colonel of the 64 Fighting Tenth of Pennsylvania, to recruit a company from Mount Pleasant, Scitdale and vicinity. Colonel Barnett offered a regiment of 12 companies to the governor and it was accepted. Captain Harkins was battalion adjutant of the Tenth regiment under Colonel Barnett. Last night when Captain Harkins sent out this message over town, "75 men by Saturday night," there was some stir and it seemed that the boys were anxious to become members of this auxiliary regiment. Dr. Harkins got in communication with some of the Scitdale men and several hours afterward it was stated that they felt positive from the sentiment expressed that Scitdale would furnish a least 35 or 40 of the necessary 75 men.

"FOOD SAVING DAY."

The dominant notes in the appeals that are being made, and will continue to be made, to the American people throughout the progress of the war are, to serve, to give and to save. In these three injunctions there is comprehended the whole duty of loyal and patriotic citizenship.

We must do whatever tasks we are fitted to perform or whatever may be assigned to us. We must give liberally of our means in order to insure the proper conduct of the several agencies which are directing the vast undertaking of preparing our country to meet and to withstand the shocks of a great war and to supply our part in it. We must do all that we can toward preventing waste of food and other articles needed for the sustenance of both ourselves and the starving millions of Europe.

For the purpose of emphasizing the supreme necessity for the prevention of waste Herbert Hoover, national food controller, has called upon the pastors of the churches in America to observe tomorrow as "Food Saving Day."

"As a minister of God," Mr. Hoover says in his appeal, "as a leader of this people and as a lover of liberty and of your fellow-men, your cooperation is earnestly desired and greatly needed. In such a time as this the people will naturally turn to the church. It will be a calamity to the nation and to the churches if their chosen ministers neglect to exercise their proper leadership in the great cause of feeding a world in need. For the world is in want of food."

To meet the needs of the war and of the world we must produce generously, give freely to our allies, ourselves eat as much as but no more than we need, and especially save the waste. Food conservation and increased production are problems of more vital interest to America than many people believe. We have been so long accustomed to having enough and to spare that we cannot bring ourselves to comprehend the fearful consequences of an acute shortage. We have failed to grasp the fact that American food producers are this year called upon to feed both themselves and a large part of Europe. We have not fully considered the other fact that the creation of the largest army ever recruited under the Stars and Stripes, while at the same time we are strengthening our industries to the highest rate of production, has lessened the number of food producers. Although there may be large increases in production this year as a result of the movement to secure larger plantings, we will be obliged to practice a degree of frugality and economy to which we have never accustomed ourselves, if we are to be provided with sufficient foodstuffs to supply us until another period of seedtime and harvest.

It is to this situation that we must address ourselves. That we may do so is the object of tomorrow's sermon topics. They should be heard by every citizen who is solicitous to know what or how to do his or her part. Those who have been disposed to be heedless of their obligation in this important matter need still more to hear these sermons. The duty, then, is upon everybody to go to church tomorrow.

FOR A SANE FOURTH.

The Fourth of July will have a new meaning for Americans this year and they ought to observe it that both its nation-wide and world-wide significance would be better understood. That is the intent and object of Governor Brumbaugh's proclamation in which he reminds us that "in this time of bitter strife, of cruel war, of conflict and of carnage, it may well be that the tendency to observe the day in an unwise way will seize upon our people, resulting in many needless casualties, including loss of life, serious and permanent injury and destruction of property—all upon the false assumption that the use of explosives will in some way express patriotism."

"Never was a time so fatal to the nation, when a proper and dignified observance of this natal day of the republic will best incite and inspire true patriotism." The Governor therefore feels urged to "call upon and counsel all citizens to avoid such forms of celebrations as are in any way hazardous to life or property."

"I call upon all ministers," the Governor says, "all patriotic officials, all societies that have the love of this republic at heart to organize for a proper observance of the day, which observance should include addresses upon the meaning and value of our country, the wrongs of war and how they may be avoided forever, the true meaning of liberty, the reason for the right observance of the day and due recognition of the fact that the nation that forgets God shall perish."

"I call upon and counsel all citizens to give special attention to the right care and culture of children in all things that make for true citizenship in this republic and to give by example as well as by counsel an unusually fitting observance of the great anniversary."

If these things are done we will all have a larger conception and a deeper understanding of what our forefathers meant when they proclaimed liberty and independence for us as a nation.

It is a distinct misfortune to this section that the plans for transforming the Mount Pleasant Institute into a Junior college have to be abandoned. Much effort was put forth by those interested in this movement and there was great promise of ultimate success. Failure of the plan is attributable to the disturbing conditions existing from the war and not to the zeal of the friends of the institution. The work will not doubt be resumed at some future time and the seed sown during the past few months will be found to bear fruit. It is hoped that the powers will also be permitted to be the reapers.

The Navy League started on its first cruise today under fair skies and with the promise of reaching port with considerable prize money.

"Tony" Difano will need to secure the presence in Conneltsville of but a few of his celebrities to make his proposed celebration the greatest ever.

Conneltsville Liberty Bond buyers will get their full quota. That's one advantage of the progress of the war which will result in the millions who will receive but part.

Between "passing the buck," "hedging" and "travelling" the proposition issue official Washington is having some very busy and uncomfortable days just now.

The "book" farmers are beginning to look on the right side of their crop accounts.

If every section of the country had as zealous patriots among the women as this town there would be very few slackers outside the jails, but probably a considerable number inside.

The cut in coal prices will put "buried zones" around some of the "rich" coal operators.

Colonel Barnett and other old boys of the Tenth may still get into the game. If they do the game is up with the Kaiser.

President Wilson will need something more secure than ordinary Democratic fences to mark the boundary line of the "buried zones" he is laying out in the wet-and-dry sea.

Go to bed early tonight and save your Sunday sleep so that you can go to church in the morning and learn why you should save food.

WOMAN.

Woman is a tender, sympathetic being who is put on this earth to share man's joys and sorrows and to be his backbone. For some reason which has never been satisfactorily explained, the average husband is willing to let his wife carry 60 per cent of his troubles, so long as she is satisfied with 10 per cent of the may check. Some women rebel against this arrangement and draw up a pre-nuptial contract splitting the proceeds fifty-fifty.

Woman was discovered in the Garden of Eden a mere year ago and immediately began to foment discord and wringing men for new clothes and wringing men for more freedom.

Woman is more intelligent now than she was then, and is able to read printed matter with grace and fluency. We regret to state, from the unbiased standpoint of a married man, that she is still able to foment a high grade of discord.

If it were not for woman's interference with man's peace and quiet the husband would have to go out to business and the household duties of the safety razor would be forever stilled.

Until a few years ago women were content to do most of the work and this gave men time for thought and pin pool. This was one of the most sensible and satisfactory arrangements that could be devised, and enabled large droves of exhausted citizens to lay in a complete stock of rest. But what we see today? We see women refusing to support the family without help and even demanding an allowance of 25 or 30 cents a week. The weekly allowance cannot be too strongly condemned by the press and clergy. It is a cunning device to separate tight husbands from their wives and their children.

The growing independence of woman, as illustrated by the fact that some men are not allowed to carry a key to the front door, but have to give three knocks and the woman must answer before being admitted after 2 o'clock in the morning. The woman's suffrage movement also shows that man is rapidly drifting into obscurity, old age and decay, and will soon be given the choice of voting the same way his wife does or sewing on his buttons.

Man cannot get along without woman but the increasing number of women wage-earners is melancholy testimony to the fact that woman can get along without man and lay up money.

Tighten the tops of jars immediately and stand the containers upside down in a cool place, being careful that no draft strikes the hot jars. Watch for leakage and screw covers down tighter when necessary. Store in a cool, dry place, not exposed to freezing temperature.

Use band labels for cans, being careful not to let the glue get on the can itself as it may cause rust.

From time to time, especially in very hot weather, examine jars and cans, making certain that there are no leaks, swellings or other signs of fermentation.

There will be no spoilage if the directions are followed implicitly and the containers are sealed up tight.

Fruits which are put up with heavy syrups can be kept under cork and paraffin seal. Save all wide-necked bottles, glasses and jars for putting up fruits.

Vegetables, meats, and fish, however, can not be kept safely unless they are hermetically sealed. Reserve regular jars for products that can not be packed in other ways.

As there may be some difficulty in securing cans and jars, dry or keep in other ways everything that need not be canned.

But a good many minutes passed, and still they did not come. Pearson, aware of his companion's growing anxiety, chatted of the novel, of the people at the boarding house, of anything and everything he could think of likely to divert attention from the one important topic. The answers he received were more and more brief and absent. At last, when Edwards again appeared, apparently aloof, at the entrance to the dining room, Captain Elsie, with a sigh which was almost a groan, surrendered.

"I guess," he said reluctantly, "I guess, Jim, there ain't any use waitin' any longer. Somethin's kept 'em, and they don't be here for dinner. You and I'll set down and eat—though I ain't got the appetite I cal'lated to have."

CHAPTER XI.

"Caroline, I Want You."

PEARSON had dined hours before, but he followed his friend, resolved to please the latter by going through the form of pretending to eat.

They sat down together, Captain Elsie, with a rueful smile, pointed to the floral centerpiece.

"We won't touch the birthday cake, Jim," he added a little later. "She's got to eat that herself."

The soup was only lukewarm, but neither of them commented on the fact. The captain had eagerly tasted of his when he passed, his spoon in air.

"Hey?" he exclaimed. "Listen! What's that? By the overboard, it is here they are at last!"

He sprang up with such enthusiasm that his chair tipped backward against the butler's devoted shins. Pearson, almost as much pleased, also rose.

Captain Elsie paid scant attention to the chair incident. "What are you waitin' for?" he demanded, exhibiting on Edwards, who was rubbing his knee with the other hand, his face beaming with relief and delight. "You are here, ain't you? I don't think—Why, what's the matter?"

The question was addressed to Stephen, who stood nearest to him. The boy did not deign to reply. With a contemptuous grunt he turned scornfully away from his guardian.

"What is it, Caroline?" demanded Captain Elsie. "Has anything happened?"

The girl looked coldly at him. A new brooch—Mrs. Corcoran Dunn's birthday gift—sparkled at her throat. "No accident has happened, if that is what you mean," she said.

"But—why, yes, that was what I meant. You was so awful late, and you know you said you'd be home for dinner, so—"

"I changed my mind. Come, Steve," she turned to leave the room. Pearson at that moment entered it. Stephen saw him first.

"What?" he cried. "Well, of all the nerve! Look, Caro!"

"Jim—Mr. Pearson! I mean—can in a few minutes ago," explained Captain Elsie, bewildered andammering.

The Secrets of the Hohenzollerns

STARTLING EXPOSURE OF INNER LIFE OF KAISER AND CROWN PRINCE AS TOLD BY COUNT ERNST VON HELTZENDORFF TO WILLIAM LEQUEUX

A LETTER FROM THE CROWN PRINCE'S PERSONAL ADJUTANT TO WILLIAM LEQUEUX, POSSESSOR OF THE SECRETS OF EUROPE.

Yonkers, N.Y.,
New York, N.Y.,
February 10th, 1917.

My dear Lequeux:

I have just finished reading the proofs of your article describing my life as an official at the imperial court at Potsdam, and the two or three small errors you made I have duly corrected.

The great scandal and the intrigues which I have related to you were many of them known to yourself, for, as the intimate friend of the Kaiser, the emperor's personal adjutant, you were, before the war, closely associated with many of those at court whose names appear in these articles.

The revelations which I have made, and which you have recorded here, are not a little of the disclosures which I could make, and if the world desires more I shall be pleased to furnish you with other and even more startling details, which you may also put into print.

My service as personal adjutant to the German crown prince, in Germany, at the end, now, with the treachery of Germany against civilization, is a matter of which I feel, in my retirement, no compunction in exposing all I know concerning the secrets of the Kaiser and his sons.

With most cordial greetings from

Your sincere friend,

(Signed) ERNST VON HELTZENDORFF.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—William Lequeux, who here discloses for the first time the secrets of the Kaiser's life, is a man of high standing in the world of letters. He is the author of the "Secrets of the Hohenzollerns," a book which has been recognized throughout Europe as the possession of the Kaiser's innermost secrets.

The English "Who's Who" says of him: "He has intimate knowledge of the secret circles of Continental Europe, and is considered by the government as a man of high standing in the world of letters. He is the author of the 'Secrets of the Hohenzollerns,' a book which has been recognized throughout Europe as the possession of the Kaiser's innermost secrets."

Count von Helldorf, who was a personal adjutant to the Kaiser, has been living in retirement in Prussia since August, 1914. It was there that he received from the crown prince's personal adjutant permission to make public these revelations of the inner life of the Hohenzollerns—the life of the Kaiser and his sons.

With the Kaiser on His Private Yacht.

GERMANY'S greatness is due to beef, beer and Bismarck," declared the Kaiser to me with a laugh, as I sat one summer's afternoon with him in the business cabin aboard the Hohenzollern.

We were going on our annual cruise up the Norwegian fjords as far as Hammerfest, and were far from the island of Svalbard, if weather permitted.

It is strange how often small things occupy great minds. The reason of the emperor's good humor that afternoon was because he had learned that the cafe-restaurant in Potsdam of which he was proprietor had paid a handsome profit. The place is called "The Elsterode Mill," and was still managed by Herr Moritz, one of the old stewards of the Hohenzollerns.

The emperor, on purchasing the Hohenzollern, had ordered him to serve the best coffee procurable in Potsdam. And, even today, anybody can get there and pay 30 pfennigs for a cup that is unequalled in all Germany.

In consequence, the place is well patronized, and on many occasions his majesty will halt upon his walks and sample it.

A Mania for Traveling.

At that moment the emperor was busy making up his diary for the forthcoming month, a diary of constant travel. Such a mania has the Kaiser for traveling that upon occasions he has been known to sleep in the imperial railway saloon kept at the Wildpark station at Potsdam, ready for an early journey next morning. On such occasions the whole railway traffic is disorganized, for express trains must not run on that line. There must be no shunting or whistling lest it disturb the imperial sleep, and so on. Indeed, the Kaiser's mania for travel has become a public scandal.

dually reported to Baron von Rintelen, the Kaiser's press censor (press agent), who duly gave an account of the emperor's munificence without, of course, referring to the defiance of the imperial command.

On that same night, after the Kaiser had retired, I found the emperor walking the deck alone and behaving very strangely. He was cupless, yawning his head and holding his head, and groaning. Then he would break out into fearful imprecations against all and sundry.

In alarm I called Von Wedell, and together we approached him. Together we managed to get his majesty below and hand him over to his valet and the court physician without any of the crew being the wiser.

The Kaiser's Amazing Gormon. Next morning he appeared fresh and active, and apparently quite normal; but that evening at sunset he ordered the officials, suite officers, and crew to assemble on deck, and then, appearing in clerical garb, he preached a most marvelous and amazing sermon.

"I am God's instrument!" he cried. "He has sent me to smite the world against the world, to lead on the world of crime to victory and to world-power! In me," he cried, "you see the one sent unto you as a deliverer—the almighty upon this earth—your Kaiser!"

He raised his arm toward the sun and shouted: "The enemies of Germany shall wither as grass before the fire. I am your emperor, your deliverer, your master!"

Next morning, at Von Wedell's invitation, the captain saw the whole crew, the officers, and the emperor, to see the old Norwegian pilot was, a month later, indiscreet when he got back to Egersund; hence the sensational report which appeared in the Globe in London, a report which, of course, was promptly denied by the Wolff bureau.

Three days later we were winding our way in the smooth water between the island of Svalbard and the Hellesund, that rocky archipelago a little north of Christiania. The emperor, whom his royal spouse regarded with great concern, seemed to have recovered. I had had a most strenuous time, for his majesty had dictated all sorts of wild dispatches and made all sorts of extraordinary dismissals of high officials, together with the most amazing appointments.

Beneath his eye I had been compelled to seal up the papers in the heavy leather dispatch bag, and they had been landed with the imperial courier, an aide, at the little fishing village of Fosnes, at the entrance to the Fjorden fjord.

Another matter which greatly perturbed me was the fact that my assistant, the personal adjutant, young Rudolf von Lantze, had, while listening to the Kaiser's astounding sermon, exclaimed in his amazement, and loud enough for all to hear: "That man is no emperor; he is crazy!"

The Kaiser had heard him, and had turned his eyes towards him for an instant without pausing. But well did I know the fierce imperial vindictiveness.

In desperation I sought the emperor in his pale-blue and gold salon. I found her seated alone. I referred to the unfortunate events, and begged her to allow me to use the wireless and sign an imperial order in her august name.

I could see that the poor lady was greatly upset and extremely nervous. "It is all most unfortunate, Count von Helldorf," she said. "I only hope that we may be able to prevent the people from hearing of his majesty's actions. It was truly regrettable that Captain von Lantze should have made that very untimely remark. The emperor is absolutely furious regarding it."

"Very naturally," I said. "Lantze showed a great want of tact. But, your majesty, I went on, 'I am more perturbed regarding the contents of the dispatch bag now on its way to Berlin. Lantze is now traveling by road to Tromsø, where he is due at noon tomorrow. Thence by rail he will go down to Christiania and on by the destroyer awaiting him to Hamburg. He will be in Berlin on Thursday.'"

"I agree," she said. "The bag should be stopped," said the empress. "Yet I fear what the emperor may think if I assume his authority. Cannot you effect it by any other means?"

Stopping the Dispatch Bag. I revealed to her some of the details. There were inviolable notes addressed to the imperial chancellor and also to the crown prince, and an open declaration of war to the French ambassador in Berlin.

Her majesty, in her gray silk gown, sat there, pale and nervous. Somebody tapped at the door, but she replied: "I am engaged. Come later."

"I will endeavor to do my best," I went on, "providing that your majesty will support me."

"I certainly will. Those dispatches must be stopped at all hazards," she said. "Cannot you yourself land and overtake the courier?"

It was a wild suggestion. Lantze had gone off in the steam plume at 10:30, and the boat, returning, had already been hailed up. I could not stop ashore for at least a couple of hours, and then at some point on that rugged coast where I might be compelled to drive by some circuitous route by car to the coast. Further, the emperor would miss me, and would consequently suspect.

In a few brief sentences I pointed all this out to the empress.

"Try—do try—for our empire's sake!" she urged. "I will assist you with all my efforts. You must arrive at the imperial chancellery prior to these dispatches. The emperor is not himself. Count von Helldorf, you are a trusted servant of our house. Into your hands I place the solution of this most difficult problem."

"Will not your majesty allow me to wire to your name to your legation in Christiania to recall the courier?" I suggested. "I will send a wireless message which the minister, Von Putsch, will receive within a couple of hours, and watch will then be kept for his arrival by train. To overtake him now is, I feel sure, impossible."

For the next few seconds the Kaiser was undecided. To reverse the orders of his imperial husband was almost more than she dared. In her own sphere she was autocratic, and ruled her court just as sternly as did the emperor rule his army. But to overrule the emperor was a different matter.

"You are quite right, count," she said. "You are quite right, count. Please give your commands in my name."

In a few seconds I had written out an imperial dispatch to be transmitted by wireless, and to this the empress, grave and sad-eyed, appended her signature.

A quarter of an hour later that message to the German minister in Christiania was being taken down by the wireless operator at Lagesund, in the Christiania fjord.

A Sudden Apparition. That same evening I was reading in my cabin when Rudolf von Lantze, in the uniform of the Red Hussars of Potsdam, entered. He was tall, fair-haired man, a typical Prussian cavalryman.

"Well, Helldorf," he laughed, "my remarks during the emperor's sermon seem to have stirred up quite a lot of trouble."

"Trouble for yourself, I fancy, my dear comrade," I said.

"Well, after all, I only spoke the truth. Didn't he declare to us that he has been sent by providence as the war lord of Europe? Why, Helldorf, any man who would talk like that is crazy."

"I wish," I cried, starting up—the next second to find myself in the presence of the Kaiser himself.

We both started, staring at the figure in naval uniform, pale and hollow-eyed, standing before us like a sudden apparition.

"So I now know the opinion you hold of your emperor, Von Lantze," his majesty said very slowly, his gaze fixed upon his assistant personal adjutant.

"Your majesty, I have nothing to retract," replied the hussar.

"You declared me to be irresponsible," he said.

"For your words, your majesty; not for your actions," was the cool retort.

The emperor, boiling over with rage, for he had never before had such plain words spoken to him, made a spring forward and struck the captain full in the face.

The latter, his cheeks scarlet, reeled and clutched at the table.

His first impulse was to hit back; but, with self-possession, he drew himself up, gripped his heels together and saluted without a word.

The Kaiser, his face white as paper, turned and left the cabin.

"Well," exclaimed Rudolf at last, "he shall pay for that blow, even though he be emperor!" and he strode out, leaving me speechless with surprise.

A few minutes later I ascended to the deck in order to refresh my muddy senses. I was walking up the deck when suddenly I saw before me several of the personal suite, who saluted as the Kaiser, haughty and erect, passed with quick, angry step.

My reply. "But the officer who has raised his hand against the sovereign to whom he swore allegiance may have done!" he said. "There is but one way in which he may atone for his offense against majesty. Hand this to him."

And he gave me a letter addressed in his own hand—addressed with all Von Lantze's titles and distinctions. It was sealed with the emperor's well-known black wax.

Ten minutes later I handed the captain the emperor's letter.

He tore it open, read its contents, and they gave a queer, nervous laugh. It seemed to me.

"Thanks, Helldorf. It was my turn tonight to be on duty with his majesty, but I did not feel equal to it. Good-night."

Early next morning one of the imperial stewards entered and, awaking me, asked me to go to Captain von Lantze's cabin.

On entering I found him lying dead on his berth with blood oozing from a pistol wound in the temple.

Upon the little shelf of the folding washstand was a note addressed to me.

On opening it I found these words scribbled in pencil:

"Dear Helldorf: I have taken my life at the order of his majesty. Am I not a loyal subject after all?—Rudolph."

By noon the body of the Kaiser's victim had been landed at Bodo, where it now reposes in the little cemetery beneath those high snow-capped crags which rise against the gray, turbulent sea.

Many fantastic reports have been whispered concerning the incident, but being one of the actors in the drama, I am able here for the first time to reveal the actual truth.

Machine Gun is Best War Weapon

Indisputably the Most Terrible Instrument of Defense.

Says Observer.

Big Guns Often Inaccurate

While Necessary in Offensive Warfare Heavy Artillery is Not in Same Class With Machine Guns in Defensive Tactics.

BY A FRENCH SOLDIER.

(In the Chicago Daily News.)

Paris.—Months of furious assault on the French lines at Verdun, which have brought into play the most powerful known means of attack, have barely succeeded in bending the adversary's lines. There is, it is true, a diminution of forces on both sides, and one may look forward to the day when the accumulation of material and the superiority in numbers of men on the side of the allies will enable the latter to break more rapidly the adversary's tenacious resistance.

But why is it, one asks, that despite the accumulation of heavy cannon it costs so much in men and money and time to break the enemy's resistance? It is because this war is being fought in a period of development of the art of war, in which the means of defense are rapidly superior to the means of offense in the facility with which they can be brought into action and maintained at low cost, and above all in their efficiency, arising both from the difficulty which the adversary finds in demolishing them, and from the absolute accuracy of their aim.

Means of Defense. To understand this one has merely to review the means of defense at the disposal of the armies in the field. First, besides the trenches, and the barbed wire that prevents access to them, which are the basis of the present system of defense, and of which the shell hole wherein the soldier crouches himself from the enemy, is but a variation, the two great arms of defense are the machine gun and the "75" cannon, the last resort of the French army and one of the great defenders of Verdun.

In the factory there is nothing easier or relatively cheaper to make than the machine gun. And at the front there is nothing simpler to transport than this light arm, which three or four men can carry as they run. Its aim is most accurate; it can, when necessary, fire from 500 to 600 cartridges per minute, saving death or injury to the enemy. But against a trench it is powerless, and therefore it is pre-eminently the arm of defense. When properly handled it is so accurate that one alone has been known to stop an entire regiment. It is indisputably the most terrible instrument of war.

Heavy Shells for Offense. What are the adversary's means of annihilating these hidden, powerful defenses? Only heavy artillery; the large shell, the huge torpedo, the heavy projectile of steel, inclosing a violent explosive, is capable of demolishing netting, of demolishing those occupants of the trench whom it does not kill and keeping the adversary's nerve on edge by the menace of its sudden arrival several kilometers behind the lines. Thus the means of offensive are the heavy cannon, the large trench mortars, the large caliber howitzers (the formidable machine gun mounted on rails, all that is longest, most difficult and costly to manufacture, to transport, to set in motion. A machine gun can be installed anywhere in two minutes or less. A month is required to install the "320" trench mortar. To put a naval gun on rails in running order necessitates months of work and the installation of a railway. Even guns that are easy to handle, such as the "155," are moved with difficulty at times it takes two or three days to place them in a battery.

And this is not all. The heavy artillery is naturally less accurate than the field artillery. When one considers that heavy guns soon wear out, and the big gun can fire only a more or less limited number of shots, as its caliber increases, and as it must constantly be replaced, one understands why it is so much easier to take the defensive than the offensive, and why the situation on the western front, at all points well defended, was stationary for so long a time before the means of attack were sufficient to permit of an offensive.

HICKEY TO DRIVE SUPER SIX AT THE SPEEDWAY, JULY 4

UNIONTOWN, June 30.—D. W. Hickey, whose driving made him a popular favorite at the May 30 race of the Uniontown Speedway, again is entered for the July 1 races with the Hudson Super-Six, formerly owned by Mrs. Vail and recently bought by the Weds-Mills garage. Incidentally Vail himself, who will drive a Hudson car in the world's championship match race to be staged the afternoon of July 4, will have an opportunity of watching his former car, with which he made more than 100 miles at the Sheepshead Bay speedway, in operation under the guidance of another pilot.

Hickey drove a remarkable race

May 30 and lost first honors to Red Fetterman, winner of three speedway races, by only eight seconds. The last of victory is strong upon the Conneltsville pilot who is just breaking into the racing game, and he is coming to Uniontown to win the July 1 races. Peter O'Brien will be his mechanical aid.

Earl Cooper, Ira Vail, Louis Fountain and Louis Chevrolet will compete in the four cornered world's championship match race. Cooper won at Chicago June 15, Chevrolet at Cincinnati May 30. In addition, Cooper and Delaney Thompson will stage an automobile-acroplane race about the Speedway course.
